Professional Biography

Deborah Nicolo, MSN, APRN, is an Adult Nurse Practitioner with 37 years of nursing experience spanning clinical practice, healthcare leadership, education, and mentorship. Her career is built on a foundation of discipline, service, and clinical excellence—principles forged during her tenure as a U.S. Army nurse and refined through decades of advanced practice in civilian healthcare.

As an advanced practice registered nurse, Deborah has dedicated her career to delivering high-quality patient care, leading clinical teams, and shaping the next generation of healthcare professionals. Her expertise encompasses adult and geriatric care, advanced clinical decision-making, and the strategic leadership required to navigate complex healthcare systems with clarity and confidence.

Deborah's work extends beyond the clinical setting. She is a trusted voice in conversations about healthcare leadership, professional longevity, wellness, and the evolving landscape of advanced practice nursing. Her perspective is informed by real-world experience, continuous learning, and a steadfast commitment to the values that define excellent patient care and professional integrity.
